Heavy Desk Mic Base with XLR connector. Use 29390 as the ultimate in a sturdy, yet porous housing for your lectern microphone. At nearly 10 lbs, it's heavier than most desk-base units available - absolutely no chance of your microphone toppling over - no matter how long the gooseneck. You get a female 3-pin XLR on top, and a male 3-pin XLR (balanced output) at the rear of 29390. For those who like to tinker, a customisable removable plate, suitable for fitting switches, indicators or connectors, with access to space for additional circuitry.
