It's been a while in the asking, but the 3rd generation Presonus StudioLive digital mixing consoles have finally landed with a big bang!

StudioLive 32 has the motorised faders that have been missing in previous versions of StudioLive, but it's also scratching the surface of the host of new features. Integrated multitrack recording and virtual surround sound (no computer required). PreSonus Capture recording software is installed directly into the StudioLive console, so you can leave your laptop at home. Capture's multitrack recording makes it easy to record to the StudioLive onboard SD multitrack recorder.

A re-envisioned Fat Channel... the StudioLive Channel has received a major overhaul, while still offering digital precision with the "heart and soul of analog". A plug-in-style workflow that features vintage-style EQ and compression options on every channel, from classic tube limiters to passive EQs.

In addition to the AVB recording connection, StudioLive 32 has a 1 Gb Ethernet port that can connect to a wireless router or directly to a computer, providing remote control of virtually all features. Mix wirelessly or over a wired network from anywhere using UC Surface for Mac®, Windows®, and iPad®. Musicians can control their monitor mixes onstage with QMix®-UC for iPhone®, iPod® touch, or Android™ device without the need for large monitor networks.
